

WINTER VEGETABLE DISTRIBUTION DISTURBINGLY DISTORTED BY BUREAUCRATS AND LEGAL NEOPHYTES WITH TYPEWRITERS!

News From Your TOWN HALL

An irate citizen who is a large taxpayer and owner of buildings located in what is commonly known as our "quarters" called and asked that the paper make an investigation and expose the unjust treatment of negro women who were arrested by some high handed individual of the Town government.

Well, here goes:
In a personal inspection we found a block approximately 200x300 feet, or 60,000 square feet of ground space, with buildings jammed so close together that a car couldn't be driven between any of them, and practically none of which are decently habitable—a total of 185 rooms in about one to four persons per room.

We also found fifteen toilets to serve the entire neighborhood. There were also three bath rooms; there were open outside filthy toilets, and a few with passably clean floors, walls and fixtures. Practically no toilets had seats of any kind.

We also found evidence of fresh concrete dry wells, septic tanks and grease traps, and evidence of newly covered water holes, with the statement by the Inspector who accompanied us that here, there and everywhere were open holes, open barrels used as wells, etc., with evidence of a recent loblolly and trash heap. Testimony was had that there had been a practice of emptying night-soil and urine in open holes and on the ground.

The Mayor informed us that the Federal and State Health authorities after a recent inspection had said, "Either you clean up or we will."
In view of the fact that we are entirely dependent on what fresh vegetables are shipped from here and that we must have the negro field hands who live in such conditions to gather these vegetables, it seems that the Town Government was wise in a recent determination to clean up the "quarters" and make them more sanitary.

Then too, when Selective Service records, and the records of Public Health officials show that better than 60 per cent of our negroes are affected with venereal diseases, living in stuffy, unhealthy quarters with such sanitary conditions, it seems that it is high time someone does something about it.

The raid referred to by our phone visitor was because repeated warnings about dumping garbage out the rear window of the 20th second floor had brought no change, and resulted in warnings by the Judge to most of them with costs only to those who forfeited bonds.

A few cases of typhoid which are promoted and encouraged by conditions as we found existing and very recently corrected would make it criminal for health departments not to PREVENT SHIPMENT OF FRESH VEGETABLES FROM AN AREA INFECTED WITH HANDLERS LIVING SUCH AS THESE HAVE BEEN.

If anyone can find any solace in this report, except sympathy and encouragement for these Continued on page 4

Neller Will Move To Main Station, Allison Coming Back To Glades

Gainesville, Fla.—Dr. J. R. Neller, biochemist in charge of the Everglades Experiment Station, is being transferred to the Main Station in Gainesville for important soils chemistry studies and Dr. R. V. Allison will again take charge of the Everglades Station on June 1, it was announced today by Harold Mowry, director of the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Neller has been with the Everglades Station for the past 14 years and has been in charge of its activities for the past seven years. Director Mowry said that Dr. Neller has made important contributions to the vast research program in the Everglades. He will become soils chemist at the Main Station.

Dr. Allison, at present head of the department of soils at the Main Station, is one of the country's leading authorities on the Everglades and its problems. He was soils specialist there from 1926 to 1933, and in charge of the station from 1929 to 1933.

He was among the early investigators to show the need for trace elements in the organic soils of the Everglades, out of which research has sprung the present agricultural development in the area. During more recent years he has taken the lead in activities looking to the conservation of Everglades soil.

Dr. Neller's community activities are such that his leaving will be a distinct loss. As a deacon and active member of the Community Methodist Church has known him during his stay in the Glades; the Glades Experiment Station has named him as a member of the Boy Scouts Committee for years, and he has served as a member of the Gulf Stream Council of the Boy Scouts several terms; he is a charter member of Rotary and has headed numerous committees of this organization.

Mrs. Neller's activities have paralleled her husband's in many organizations and church work and have graciously complemented the high value of the family to the community.

Sincere Grief And Sympathy Evidenced At Two Funerals

The grief of the Community and sympathy with relatives of two of Belle Glade's outstanding citizens was most evident in the crowded Baptist church on Saturday afternoon when the funeral of the late Mr. R. V. Allison was held. The funeral of the late Mr. R. V. Allison was held at the Baptist church on Saturday afternoon.

Both funerals were in charge of the Masonic Lodge and church services for each were followed by appropriate and prescribed services at the grave. Several scores of masonic brethren attended each funeral.

Dr. R. V. Johnson of the Miami Westminister Presbyterian church assisted Rev. Jimmy Dillard in Mr. Fleming's funeral while Rev. J. O. James officiated at the Allison funeral.

The floral offerings were varied in design, beautiful in make-up and in such quantities as seldom seen in the community.

Active and honorary pall bearers were typical cross sections of the citizenry and bespoke the respect and regard of the entire community.

With Price Control Cabbage, Belle Glade 0 In W.P.B. $100 A Ton

Consumer Not Benefitting By Disorganized Markets Since Price Control

Good cabbage are rotting in the fields around Belle Glade, and selling for $100 per ton in West Palm Beach because of being piled under in the Glades and selling for twenty-five cents per bunch in WPB. A few beans are selling for $325 here and customers are paying $5.70 just 42 miles east of us, for second rate beans.

And listen to this: It costs you seventeen cents to get a bushel of celery in West Palm Beach, and you can buy 72 stalks in Belle Glade for three to four cents by the crate.

Peas cost the user $7.50 per bushel on south Dixie and $1.50 to $2.00 in Belle Glade; lettuce is selling at the same prices at the rate of $6.00 to $7.00 while the farmer is getting $2.50 in the Glades just an hour away.

Miami and Tampa are considerably under West Palm Beach, except for celery in Miami, which is bringing close to $15 per crate rate; Tallahassee is on a par with West Palm Beach with poor quality.

Hail to the OPA price ceiling policies.

"When the Smart Boys figured out the price ceiling theory and got around to the Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Industry, it is assumed they honestly attempted to secure some understanding men from the industry to put their ideas in a semblance of workable plan. But to date, if local brokers, growers and students are to be believed, reliable men of experience in the industry have been reluctant to stick their necks out, because: (1) The industry as a whole believes there are have said from the beginning that the entire theory of price ceiling on perishable fresh foods is impracticable. (2) No confidence is put in the proclivities of the thousands of embryonic attorneys to write regulations which their own selves must follow with reams and reams of interpretations in these days of a paper scarcity. It is not assumed that the farmer is on the average honest and patriotic, and

These men, both classes, might become entangled in reports, regulations, restrictions that come with war, and some even might allow political differences to influence them in that great American privilege of "belying the OPA and price ceilings. But, there is a deep seated belief based on honest conviction and knowledge among brokers, wholesalers and farmers that the system is "all wet." The thing they have predicted before first enforcement began has happened—all prices are gone haywire, and with the small profit allowed the efforts are not justified. The war with the weights patriotic urge. A season of operating with not only no profit, but a loss, and being subjected to prosecution for some infraction of a regulation that is unreasonable and impracticable, and which is broken unwittingly, the story is "it ain't worth it."

Here's what's happening, as reported by almost unanimous agreement among local men in the know.

YOUR JUDGE
Herbert D. Beck, for the past six years State Representative from Group 2, recently made formal announcement of his candidacy for Judge of the Criminal Court of Record of Palm Beach County.

A resident of Palm Beach County for 18 years and active in civic and State affairs, Mr. Beck has represented the County in the State Legislature since 1933. In 1942 he was re-elected without opposition.

During his term of office as State Representative, Mr. Beck held many important committee appointments. Among these appointments were membership on the Rules Committee, Judiciary "A" Committee, Agriculture Committee, the Committee on Amendments Committee, Census and Apportionment Committee and Chairman of Canals and Drainage Committee. He also served on the committee that established the State Highway Patrol, and took an active part in the establishment of the new 6th Congressional District.

In 1941 Mr. Beck took active part in the passage of the Probation and Parole Act, under which the State Probation and Parole Commission functions and he also was active in the passage of the criminal procedure Act of 1939 which governs criminal actions in the state courts.

Mr. Beck believes crime should be looked upon, in some cases, as a disease and that public officials should do all in their power to cure it and to rehabilitate criminals so that they may take their place again in society.

"If I do not have the backing of my constituents, I will not accept any clique or ring and if honored with this office I shall be im-

Let It Bloom Again

A merchandising authority writing in Nation's Business says: "Retail distribution in the United States after the war will be governed by a single, major objective: How to bring the greatest amount of goods at the lowest cost to the largest number of consumers."

It will be an era of opportunity for manufacturer, distributor and consumer. Never before will so many business forces have combined to achieve a practical ideal, the employment of private enterprise in the service of the consuming public."

Whether the objective of the retail distribution industry will be realized depends more upon government policies than upon retailers. The ability of American merchants is well known. But that ability at present is smothered under a semi-dictatorial, centralized government. After the war it is devoutly to be hoped that the process of liquidating government oppression will begin promptly. Not until then can opportunity, so long familiar to the United States, be counted upon to return in full bloom.

Humanity Moves Forward

A few days ago the Navy's flying boat Mars landed in Hawaiian waters after an outward flight from California. The fact that the trip was scarcely noted in the press was the most spectacular aspect of the undertaking. World-wide air transport has become commonplace. Humanity has taken another step forward without realizing it.

Global air transport statistics since Pearl Harbor are hard to comprehend. The import of strategic war materials by air has been about 20 times as safe as such imports by surface vessels. While the average unit value of war commodities has been only 3 1/2 cents a pound when moved by surface vessel, it has been $2.85 when moved by air. Only high valued materials are sent by plane.

The average American ocean vessel of the year 1798 was only 87 per cent as big, in gross tonnage, as the Navy flying boat Mars.

Eighteen U. S. airplanes are now participating in domestic and over-ocean transport services operated by the Army and the Navy, and several great United States aircraft manufacturers alone, as compared with less than 8,000,000 pounds for a comparable period in 1941.

Modern air transport is not a "war baby." Trans-oceanic clippers were flying long before the war. Military authorities point out that air transport on the present scale would never have been possible except for the years of pioneering carried on by the commercial airlines. Those airlines were conceived in the minds of barnstorming pilots whose dreams were backed by business men with vision and unlimited faith in America and aviation. These men, from grease monkeys to airline presidents, were "rugged individualists." The country can be thankful that it had them before the war. It needs them now and will need them more than ever in the future, if our national stride is to remain unbroken.

The House of Cards

Mr. Murray, head of the CIO, argues that because the cost of living has risen higher, according to his estimates, than according to government statistics, wages must continue to rise. This means increased cost of production and still higher prices.

The game being played by prominent labor leaders is like the childhood pastime of building a house of cards—inevitably one last card brings the structure toppling down.

There is no reason for our country suffering a devastating collapse if our people will use their God-given intelligence, instead of following the easy money, no work boys, as sheep follow a blind leader over a precipice.

Farmer's Ace

A wholesale change is taking place on the farm. Farmers are growing weary of centralized government control. After a decade of trying to fit their existence to the dictates of politics rather than natural laws, the farmers are fed up. Their attitude is best exemplified in their battle against subsidies.

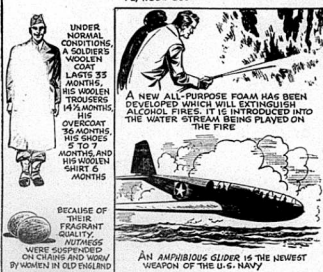

Farmers in the future are going to have to depend upon themselves to an increasing extent in reaching sound solutions on agricultural problems. This does not mean that each farmer will have to fight his battle alone. That day is long past. He can now turn to such farmer-owned business organizations as the marketing cooperatives. The co-ops help him sell his produce at a fair price. They strive to stabilize supply and demand, while leaving the farmer free to concentrate on the job of production.

The marketing cooperatives will prove to be the farmer's ace in the hole when disillusionment with "sugar" government becomes complete.

Victory Over Death

That occurred a few of the medical advances that followed in 1943: Penicillin became widely known; new types of malaria were introduced; mosquito control measures were perfected to combat malaria; new uses were found for the sulfaonamide drugs; intensive treatment centers were established for syphilis; new facts about vitamin B were discovered; treatment of infected wounds and shock was advanced.

THE POCKETBOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

Each of these developments was a victory over death. The medical profession is entitled to banner headlines from one end of the country to the other heralding these lifesaving accomplishments.

Willing To Die—For What?

A news release from Pearl Harbor telling of the attack on the Marshall Islands, said: "... The troops must make landings through machine gun and artillery fire, must secure the beachheads and push forward, often yard by yard ... It will be ... willingness to die which will capture the Marshalls ..."

A news release from Detroit of approximately the same date reported that: "A sitdown of more than 1,000 workers in support of demands for a 10-cent an hour wage increase ... threatened production in the Ford Willow Run bomber plant."

A news release from Edgewater Beach, New Jersey, also of the same approximate date, gave an account of how two union men had been expelled from the union for conduct "unbecoming to union men." Their offense was testing 22 to 24 trucks a day instead of the union decreed average of 10 to 12.

How long can we expect our men in the armed forces to be willing to die for the nation, if these criminal abuses of freedom are continued?

In all the planning, far too little has been said and done to stimulate and encourage initiative, self reliance and the sense of individual responsibility.

Here they come again folks—the scrappiest team on the screen today—Abbott and Costello—with Ginny Simms, Patrice Knowles and a huge cast in a brand new show under the title "Hi! The He!"

Lavishly produced and with some of the world's greatest actors on ice, this show promises to be the best show the boys have brought forth in their Hollywood career.

Tuesday-Wednesday Harriet Hilliard, David Bruce, June Vincent and Ozzie Nelson and his Orchestra bring us a neat comedy romance in "Honeymoon Lodge." This is a song-studded musical show with a tender romance and seeds of good wholesome comedy.

Thursday-Friday Humphrey Bogart and The Dead End Kids return to our screen in a picture that should bring home a lesson to all parents. This show is under the title "Crime School." Besides being action it carries a message to all Americans interested in the upbringing of our children.

Saturday Dick Ford returns in "Land Beyond the Law," which is said to be a fine Western story with action enough to please any Western fan.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Somethin' special catch your eye in the paper, Judge, Chet... an article here telling about prohibition in India being written off by the Madras government as a dismal failure after a three-year trial. They found out that enforcement was ineffective and that there was a steady increase in bootlegging and other violations of the law which increased penalties failed to check."

"Sure did, Chet... an article here telling about prohibition in India being written off by the Madras government as a dismal failure after a three-year trial. They found out that enforcement was ineffective and that there was a steady increase in bootlegging and other violations of the law which increased penalties failed to check."

"It all goes to prove what I've said time and time again, Chet... prohibition doesn't prohibit. It's been tried in this country 47 times in the last 33 years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Was found to be a failure and abandoned in Canada, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia, too."

"Same thing happens every time... as soon as legal liquor is voted out, bootleg liquor with its crime and corruption moves right in."

RED CROSS

Continued from page 1 national disasters to above average. Feeding, clothing, housing and medical care were supplied with dispatch. All chapters maintained their service units in readiness to meet natural disaster of any type—storm, flood, fire—and to assist local emergency defense councils with civilian defense emergency action.

in accordance with agreements with the federal offices of Civilian Defense and Defense Health and Welfare Service.

15,000 Survivors of Marine Disaster Aided

The Canteen Corps, well trained, hard-working, and on call 24 hours a day, reached the point where it could serve daily meals to more than 12,000,000 of our people in an emergency. It served troops in transit and members of the armed forces at the point of embarkation.

As well as fire fighters and disaster victims, school children and war workers.

525,000,000 Surgical Dressings Produced

As an adjunct of the Medical Department of the Army and Navy, as prescribed by congressional charter and their regulations, the Red Cross was active in military and naval hospitals in the United States and in all theatres of operations.

12,000,000 Garments Made

To men as they came out of the lines Red Cross workers gave cigarettes. They gave comfort articles to men upon embarkation, and again as needed behind the lines, in base camps and in all hospitals. A comb, a toothbrush, a razor, even a button and needle and thread, had an enormous morale value to a man miles from his accustomed comfort store.

Millions of kit bags were made and packed by Red Cross workers back home. Red Cross sweaters and other wool comfort articles were provided upon requisition of commanding officers. At Christmas time, Red Cross gift packages—razor blades, gum, candy, cigarettes—were given.

1,500,000 First Aid Certificates Issued

As a part of its chartered obligation to carry on measures for preventing suffering, the Red Cross asked 1,500,000 will the number of trained first aiders and 300,000 trained in water safety during the past twelve months. Statistically, one home in three, at the period's end, had first aid protection. In factories, stores, offices, and schools, many hundreds of First Aid Detachments were organized. On the highways, thousands of Emergency First Aid Stations and Mobile First Aid Units provided materials and volunteer services for the injured.

5,200,000 Prisoner of War Packages Packed

Thanks to treaties, American prisoners of war are entitled to fair treatment, essential food, clothing, shelter, and medical care from the detaining power, but shortages, differences in national food habits, individual needs, and other conditions require special shipments of goods from home: foods, clothing, medicines, cigarettes, recreational equipment. Under regulations, parcels of kind sent favorite foods and articles of clothing and relatives and friends may have books sent to individual prisoners.

Getting these things together and delivered safely during the past twelve months utilized contributions of goods or services by many branches of the United States government, by individuals, by organizations, and by the American Red Cross and the International Red Cross Committee.

During this period Red Cross packing centers packed millions of Red Cross standard food packages, the contents of which were furnished and paid for principally by the United States and United Nations governments for those prisoners of war who were destined. All were consigned to the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva for distribution to American prisoners and internees in enemy camps, and for other United Nations prisoners of war. One food package per week was allotted to each American prisoner of war.

With other army goods, medicines, and personal packages, they were shipped to Europe by the American Red Cross in neutral vessels to Lisbon or Marseille, and on to Geneva by rail, or to the Far East by diplomatic exchange ships and on Russian vessels to Vladivostok for transshipment as arranged between the American and Japanese governments.

Safe arrival of packages, and the maintenance of suitable prison conditions, pledged by in territorial treaties, were checked by delegates of the neutral International Red Cross Committee.

$77,000,000 Foreign War Relief Distributed

Value of aid furnished by or through American Red Cross: Great Britain $36,444,220.18, China $4,101,248.68, Russia $11,177,899.82, North Africa $358,463.90, Middle East $3,432,128.86, Occupied Countries $2,246,586.25, Other countries $19,965,513.09.

Red Cross accountants verified Red Cross expenditures while auditors for the War Department checked all receipts and expenditures as required for congressional review.

M. O. Owens, First Baptist church of Palm Beach, Fla., will conduct a revival meeting beginning March 6 at the First Baptist church, South Bay. All are invited.

Band Finances Practically Assured

With a pledge of $100 by the Women's Club and a donation of $200 by the City Fathers, and a move on foot for similar pledges from the Rotary, Lions, Legion and Business and Professional Women in the near future, a total of approximately 30 members of the newly formed band will be equipped with instruments.

A number of instruments have been donated and there is still room for further donations of instruments.

A fund of $600 was presented to the school by Mr. Bailey of the Chamber with which to purchase instruments if they are the band itself with own, and a number of parents have bought instruments for their children. But, a number of children have been selected as promising material whose parents have signified their willingness to purchase instruments if they are permitted to make monthly payments. A rotating fund is to be set up with the money last raised for this purpose and the book-keeping and collections will be handled by the school and band officials.

Any donations towards the band will be gratefully received by Prof. Hobson.

"Vegetables were sold in '32 to '35 with more profit for those sold than is now the case," several farmers agreed, "and this too when the country is running over with dollars, so to speak. This too in the face of an increased production at the request of the U. S. D. A."

Conservatively, it is estimated, 30 to 40 cars of cabbage daily are going to waste in the fields for want of buyers. And they are good cabbage too, tasty, edible and satisfying to the epicurean. A lot of them will grade U. S. No. 1 (85 per cent) too, and still go to waste in the fields.

Escarole, another green vegetable, hardly returns harvesting and packing costs and is being left in the fields.

Each year, when the prices fall off or there is a surplus, land walling and grubbing is heard about not planting next season, but up comes acres and acres of vegetables that weren't going to be planted. Now, however, old hands at the game, conservative, observant and "in the know" predict a retrenchment of major proportions for the
